In 9901.251 Pay Administration - being able to set pay higher than the employees that are already in these positions, will cause an uncomfortable working environment, because of the rate of inflation it is natural the new employees are going to be hired at higher starting pays and since the cost of living increase have been taken away this gives the potential for an employee that has just be hired to be making more than an employee that has been with the company ~~for~~ for a long time

Sincerely,
